THE Frenchie Bull

Frenchie Breathing:
When to Call the Vet

Snoring and noisy breathing aren't just part of the breed. They can mean your dog is working harder to breathe.

Go to a vet right now

- [ ] Gums or tongue look blue or gray
- [ ] Your Frenchie collapses
- [ ] They can't seem to catch their breath

Don't wait to see if it gets better.

Talk to your vet soon

- [ ] Breathes loudly even when resting
- [ ] Gets tired after just a short walk
- [ ] Often wakes up gasping
- [ ] Struggles in warm weather

Before the appointment

- Film it on your phone
- Note when it happens: at rest, on walks, or in the heat

Every day

- Walk on a harness, not a collar
- On warm days: water and a cool spot to rest
